DAF T1300 "Frog" Recovery vehicle

In January 1963 this DAF T1300 "Kikker" was new on the road in the Netherlands.

This DAF was most likely purchased new by Shell and had the original color "Shell Red".

At a later stage, this DAF was converted into a recovery vehicle, after which it was used for many years.

After the death of the old garage owner, his son had the vehicle fully restored.

The vehicle is completely new in the red color, in addition, the brakes and vacuum pump are new.

This was probably done around the year 2000.

The operation of the superstructure is manual, the winch is driven by means of a hand crank.

The boom is also extendable and there is also a manual spoon on it.

The DAF has a 6-cylinder petrol engine (type: BA475), 2 storage boxes and 2 handbrakes.

Very likely the odometer reading of 19,643 km is original!
